Draft Calls 18 More Into The Army

Eighteen Sierra Madreans were inducted into the Army at Los Angeles Tuesday as the city's contribution to the district draft quota for April. Following their physical examinations they were given seven day furloughs and will report then to Ft. MacArthur for assignment to reception centers and basic training.

The list of those called as furnished by Local Board 191 contains the names of Carl William Hanson, Gus Henry Patotzka, Carmen Sanchez, Jack Patrick Meyers, Wilbur Godin Evans, William Gustave Peterson, Raymond Trejo Sanchez, Norman Russel Dumas, Joseph Haines Grijalva, Richard Thomas James, Gene Francis Nault, John Q. Copeland, John Malcolm Dawson, Stanley Lamar Wood, Jr., Wilbur Brewer Thayer, Willie Arthur Hill, Thomas John Meador and Dale Winfred Langley.

This week draft boards were preparing letters to 4-F registrants in non-essential industries notifying them that they must transfer immediately to essential industries or face induction into the Army for limited service.

This order will affect all but wheel chair and mental cases. Limited service in the Army means a man will have no combat duties, though not necessarily assigned to an area removed from combat activity.

Conference To Hear From Many Lands

Annual Event At Bethany Church To Be Addressed By Many Missionaries

Missionaries from many lands in the far east and travelers through countries that are now the battlefronts in the global war will be principal speakers at the nineteenth annual bible conference of Bethany Church which opens next Tuesday, May 4 and continues through Wednesday. This annual event attracts many visitors from cities throughout Southern California.

Tuesday morning Rev. R. Merrill Jensen, pastor of the Ontario Baptist church, son of R. S. Jensen of this city and the late Mrs. R. S. Jensen, who founded the Bethany Bible Conference, will speak, followed by Mrs. H. V. Lemly, just returned from Mexico.

Mrs. Fred Jackson of Los Angeles, a Bible teacher whose husband is a missionary in Borneo, will lecture in the afternoon.

Dr. C. H. Roberts, who has been head of the Hunan Institute in China and a longtime resident of the far east, is expected to arrive in time to give one of the most interesting informaive lectures of the conference. Charles G. Fuller will be the evening speaker.

Opening the program on the second day will be Miss Marthena Ransom, who has been head of a woman's bible training school in India. Finishing the morning program, Mrs. Rena Williams, a missionary who with her husband, made a thrilling escape from Borneo just before the Japanese invasion will tell of her work there.

Dr. James Cuthbertson, who has been a missionary in the Orient for many years, will speak at 1 p.m. and Mrs. R. E. Neighbor, a Bible teacher and magazine writer, will talk at 2 p.m. Dr. James Inglay will be the evening speaker.

At noon of each day, there will be a pot luck luncheon and coffee will be provided for everyone.

Organized Special Civilian Defense First Aid Class

Dr. W. B. Heagerty, Chief of Emergency Medical Service, Civilian Defense, announces that he is organizing a new class, which will meet at 7:30 p.m. on the first and third Wednesday in each month in the Park House. This class will be a refresher course in first aid work as it specially pertains to civilian defense needs and practices. It will be open to all personnel active in first aid groups in civilian defense who wish to keep up their active status and comply with the regulations, and also to members active in other services, as volunteer police, firemen, rescue squads or air raid wardens wishing to review first aid knowledge as applied to civilian defense needs.

The first meeting will be May 5th. Dr. Heagerty will be assisted by a selected group of well trained assistants.

Blackout Is Declared Incomplete

Failure Of Many Residents To Extinguish Lights Brings Sharp Warning

Sierra Madre improved on its observance of blackout regulations during the 55 minute air raid alarm of Easter Sunday night, but there was still plenty of room for improvement, according to the police department and officers of the Council of Civilian defense. Street lights and those in the downtown area went out within a minute after the warning siren began to wail. This feature of the blackout was the most satisfactory to date. But air raid wardens were obliged to rap on many doors in the residential districts and demand that lights be extinguished.

The police department received many complaints both during the blackout and on Monday about homes in which little or no effort was made to comply with the important regulations. Notice was served on some of the offenders that hereafter they will be placed under arrest and subjected to the severe penalties provided for such cases.

It was also necessary for air raid wardens to flag down quite a number of motorists who not only failed to halt their cars but made no effort to extinguish their driving lights.

Response of the defense corps units was more satisfactory than during any of the preceding 19 air raid alarms. Every seat at the control board was occupied by the person designated to fill it within five minutes after the red light showed, fire apparatus was stationed at strategic points throughout the city and the city casualty stations and park house were filled with members of the various defense units ready for any emergency. Many residents trudged up to high spots in the northern section of the city to watch searchlights in many parts of southern California hunting planes in the sky, though there was no anti-aircraft shelling as on the ocasion of a former memorable blackout.

Sierra Madre Girl Joins The SPARS

Enlistment of Miss Bonita Williams, 23-year-old daughter of Mrs. Edith Boyer Williams of 400 Mariposa ave., and the late Guy Williams, prominent Pasadena real estate broker, in the SPARS, the women's reserve of the United States Coast Guard, has just been announced by the Pasadena Navy recruiting station.

She will leave for Hunter College, New York within the next ten days, where she will take her basic training and graduate with a petty officer's rating.

Miss Williams attended Wilson Junior High School and Pasadena Junior College. She is well known in Southern California musical circles, having a beautiful soprano voice, and has sung at the Gold Shell in Pasadena; before numerous civic organizations and club gatherings and is a present member of the Kirk choir of the Presbyterian church in Pasadena.

Prior to her enlistment in the SPARS, Miss Williams was employed as a stenographer and receptionist by a well known Pasadena concern.

Audubon Society To Visit City Twice On Bird Walks

The Audubon Society of Pasadena, during its year of bird-walks, visits many delightful places, parks, canyons, woods, and it is occasionally invited to spend a morning on some beautiful private estate, but one of the places the members say they enjoy the most, is Sierra Madre, because of the variety of birds found here. This year the society has chosen to come here twice. The next outing to take place here will be Wednesday, May 5th. The bird lovers and students of birds in Sierra Madre are cordially invited to join this group on this date.

The morning will be spent in the Canyon. At the noon hour the group will partake of their individual box lunches in the city park. Then follows the program during which members give interesting and instructive talks on personal bird experiences.

Sierra Madre has four members belonging to this Society. They are Mmes. W. S. Pinkerton, M. S. Davis, George Poulter and Miss Elizabeth Pingree, the last named being trail leader for the morning.

More Ration Stamps Are Valid Now

Housewives who found themselves running out of blue and red stamps in War Ration Book No. 2, breathed a sigh of relief Monday when blue stamps, G, H and J, and red stamps E became valid and will be good the rest of April and throughout the month of May. But—if any household is lucky enough to have blue stamps D, E, and F, and red stamps A, B, C, and D, they must use them by April 30, when their validity expires.

The other red stamps, in blocks of sixteen points, will become valid on successive Sundays in their alphabetical order and will be good through May 31.

Beef and lamb ceiling prices, effective May 17, will be one to three cents a pound lower than previously planned, and temporary ceiling prices set on seven fresh vegetables last February will be extended indefinitely.

Sixty-day ceilings in snap beans, carrots, cabbage, green peas, lettuce and spinach set Feb. 23, will continue in effect until a permanent schedule can be established in cooperation with the representatives of the fruit and vegetable industries.

The OPA this week issued an order to lift the "course of work" driving ceiling, which will permit rationing boards to raise the limit from 470 to 720 miles per month and to issue "C" stickers accordingly, May 1. The new provision gives salesmen, newspapermen, photographers and others who drive in the "course of work" the same eligibility for a maximum gasoline ration of 720 miles a month conditioned on their ability to properly account for their needs. There is no change in the mileage allowance for "driving to and form work."

Beginning May 1, menus of all hotels, cafes and restaurants must plainly state that all prices listed are ceilings or below ceilings. OPA also decrees that reduction in quantity or quality of meals served, must be accompanied by a corresponding reduction in prices. Prices on foods and beverages, and meals cannot exceed prices charged through the week of April 4 to April 10 of 1943.

Charge Dogs Tearing Up V Gardens

Complaints By Citizens Bring An Appeal From The City Council

What to do about dogs running wild through and ruining Victory Gardens of which Sierra Madre now has hundreds.

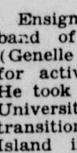

The city council was showered with inquiries and complaints on this subject at its meeting Tuesday evening. Several well known V Gardeners who realize the importance of this means of relieving the food shortage appeared in person. Others sent letters. All agreed that unless owners of dogs voluntarily agree to keep their animals on their own premises it will be necessary to have a drastic city ordinance inflicting a severe penalty on owners who permit their animals to run at large, or abandon any hope of growing victory gardens here.

Entirely sympathetic with the V gardeners on account of the importance of their undertaking, the council thought an appeal to dog owners might correct the situation. accordingly Mayor Tom Schwartz was directed to issue an appeal to the owners of animals. This he did, as follows:

"In view of the fact that a large number of complaints have been received from Victory Garden owners in regard to damage done by roaming dogs and the fact that Victory Gardens are a direct part of the war effort, the city council is asking the cooperaion of dog owners to stop this unnecessary damage.

"It is the desire of the council not to be obliged to pass a stringent ordinance requiring that dogs be on a leash, unless confined to the owners premises as has been done by most of our neighboring communities.

Thomas W. Schwartz,
Mayor."

If every man, woman and child in the United States lays aside $100 the aggregate will be about $13,000,000,000 or the amount the Treasury must raise in its Second War Loan.

Order Lots Cleared Of Weeds To Remove Record Fire Hazard

Employes of the city street department began posting notices yesterday on weed covered lots throughout the city in compliance with a resolution adopted by the city council Tuesday evening warning property owners that unless weeds are removed by May 11, crews of city employes will render the service with the cost added to the tax bills of the owners. It is unlawful to burn lots without first securing a permit from the fire marshall. Because of the many and frequent winter rains the fire hazard is considered the greatest in many years.

New First Aid Classes Are Starting

Standard and advanced First Aid classes are now being organized by the Red Cross, and qualified instruction will begin as soon as classes with the available quotas can be obtained. There will be both day and night classes for the convenience of those working at various hours.

Any person taking the course two years ago must now take it again to be qualified to give first aid. Ernest Gray, First Aid chairman, appeals to citizens who must renew their first aid training or to those who have never taken it before, to leave their names at the Red Cross headquarters at 47 W. Sierra Madre blvd., or phone 4313.

The local Red Cross is working in cooperation with the Pasadena chapter, and William C. Oglesby, assistant field director of the Red Cross at Camp Santa Anita, to provide patients at the Monastery and Eiler's Estate hospital with pajamas and hospital slippers.

If anyone has old quilted bed pads, they are requested to turn them over to the Red Cross where they will be made into hospital slippers for the soldiers. The chapter is still asking for ping pong and card tables, horse shoes and radios for the use of soldiers at these two places. Contact the Red Cross if you have any of these items to contribute.

City Expected To Top Its $100,000 War Loan Quota By At Least 25 Per Cent

Defense Workers Eager To Get Their Names In Subscription Lists

With its $100,000 quota already well oversubscribed in the Second War Loan campaign Sierra Madre is expected to exceed the amount assigned it by 25 per cent before the drive ends Saturday night. Chairman Glenn L. Alspach, chairman of the local committee, was confident of that last night when the subscriptions already in totaled $112,000.

"As of Tuesday evening there were at least $8,000 of pledges outstanding", said Mr. Alspach, "and smaller pledges and subscriptions were still coming in at a most satisfactory rate. We anticipate this will coninue unil the end of the drive. It is most gratifying to find the interest being taken in the campaign by local citizens, men and women, employed in the various defense industries. They all seem to want to get on the subscription lists before the books are closed and during the next few days we look for literally hundreds of small loans."

Citing the disclosure by Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgantheau, Jr., that the "West Coast is at the bottom of the ladder" in purchases of government securities during the drive, the local campaign committee leaders urged every loyal citizen to join in "showing the world that we in Southern California are as patriotic as the people in any other part of the country."

Total sales for the area at the close of business Saturday were estimated to have reached $143,000,000, against a quota of $221,000,000. Most of this represented purchases of large blocks by corporations and other heavy investors.

Monrovia School Head Tells How Tempo Stepped Up In Education

William "Bill" Feeler, superintendent of adult education the adult education department and director of defense insrtuction in the Monrovia High School, spoke to local Kiwanians Club Tuesday about "School Children in War".

He said there had been a complete revolution in education and that the wartime function of American schools today is primarily to turn out over 1,000,000 men and women a year to replace those who have gone to war.

Quick training in essentials is the tempo of, education in most college schools, he said. Colleges and universities surviving, have become specialized training centers, abridging ther courses for service and war industry needs.

Some of the revolutionary changes that have been made are in medical colleges, where they give only the bare training; the San Diego Nursing school course has been cut from two years to six months and nurses are graduated as soon as possible. Enrollment at the Univerity of California dropped from 32,000 to 17,000 in 1942, so entrance requirements were lowered, Mr. Feeler pointed out as showing the increased tempo, and there is a re-emphasis on mathematics, science and workshop courses in high schools. Typing, shorthand, drafting and blue print reading have become essentials.

SIMULATED AIR RAID "WRECKS" CITY TO SHOW EFFICIENCY OF CIVILIAN DEFENSE

By Lt. Col. W. B. Heagerty

Assumed bombers flew over Sierra Madre dropping pretended bombs Monday evening in order that the Civilian Defense Corps might have its monthly field exercises and casualty station practice. The blackout time, about 24 hours after a real blackout, was set at a few minutes before eight o'clock. Promptly at 8, air raid wardens began to patrol their posts and phone in their reports of the "damage" done by the "raiding planes".

For about 40 minutes the four telephone operators at the Control Board received reports which informed the chiefs of the various services the damage they had to take care of.

The simulated incidents were 1. a burning building, at 307 Mariposa, caused by an incendiary bomb which also caused two severely injured casualties; 2. a high explosive bomb, dropped in the middle of the street at 125 E. Montecito, demolished a house, broke water and gas mains, broke the electric line, badly injured five people and trapped two more casualties under the building; 3. an unexploded bomb dropped at the intersection of Hermosa and Esperanza, doing very little damage; 4. incendiary and explosive bombs dropped between N. Baldwin and Auburn on Mira Monte Ave., starting a fire in a house, blocking the street and seriously injuring two persons; 5. incendiary and explosive bombs dropped between Canon and Coburn aves. on E. Highland ave., causing two casualties, starting a fire on roof of a home and damaging water and gas mains; 6. an incendiary bomb dropped on a house on E. Laurel between Mountain Trail and Baldwin ave., causing a bad fire but injuring none; 7. a high explosive fell on Lima st. between Carter and Grand View ave., injuring a building and trapping two people under the fallen structure; 8. an incendiary bomb fell on Ramona ave. between Hermosa and Lima st., starting a fire on the roof of a building, no casualties; 9. at the north end on Auburn incendiaries fell causing a fire which got out of control and was a grave danger to mountain brush.

As these incidents were phoned in, the chiefs of the various services on the Control Board were busy sending orders to their respective personnel, in order to meet the different situations. Fire equipment was being dispatched, manned by volunteer firemen; police cars were carrying volunteer policemen to warn the public or automobiles of dangerous places in the streets or near explosive bombs. A bomb expert went to examine the unexploded bomb and order proper precautions taken; public utility men were repairing or preventing further damage from gas and water mains and electric light wires and the casualty station between 8 and 9:45 p.m. was a scene of orderly activity.

As each incident was reported ambulances were ordered out. First aid and stretcher teams, with doctors and nurses, proceded to the site of incidents and prepared the casualties for transportation to the station. Morphine was administered, suifa drugs given by mouth or dusted on a wound, when necessary. Splints and dressings applied, casualty tags were filled out, chemical heat pads applied and the casualty wrapped in warm blankets and taken to the ambulance and then to the station.

When a casualy arrives at the station a rapid examination is made, a full record of name, address, diagnosis, treatment and disposition made and then taken to treatment room, where the head nurse takes charge. Severe burns are treated with the new sulphanilimide wax spray, anti-tetanus serum administered and further emergency treatment given as required. The casualty is then taken to the holding room for final disposition to a major or base hospital, for observation, or home.

Most of this work was simulated Monday night, but all reports of the drill showed excellent coordination, prompt dispatching of services and that the present set-up and organization can function to advantage. Replacements are necessary for the turnover of personnel and regular practice to bring about necessary improvements. The Control Board considered the practice on Wednesday morning and a conference of the Emergency Medical Services on Wednesday evening also discussed it.

Woman Gets Defense Workers To Their Jobs On Time

Sierra Madre defense and other workers required to arise at unusual hours to reach their places of employment as the various shifts change and unable to buy alarm clocks—no longer to be had—are assured they can be on the job at the right time now through a "wake you up" service just inaugurated here by an enterprising local woman whose husband goes to work in the middle of the night.

Her service is around the clock, calling tired and sleepy workers by telephone at the time fixed by them until they answer. A similar service in 40 other southern California cities has been a boon to defense workers obliged to be ready and waiting when the share-the-ride driver that calls for them pulls up at their homes. "Call me at CUster 5-4018 and I'll arrange to wake you up every day," says this energetic woman.

Women In Defense

"Mary had a little lamb." But the fact that it was a pet, created no inhibitions that prevented it from becoming lamb chops a little later on.

Many a calf has romped wholeheartedly with the family youngsters, only to wind up eventually as veal chops.

"Bossy" often is a family pet for a time, only to end it all in roundsteaks and hamburger.

Now comes horse meat.

In many communities "horse meat butcher shops" are making their appearance, a State Council of Defense survey reveals. This horse meat is being sold for human consumption under State inspection, and is pronounced quite tasty.

But "old Dobbin", the family pride, seems in no jeopardy.

Wild mustangs are being rounded up in Nevada, driven into corrals and fattened for a couple of months. Then—bang! One shot in the head and they're on their way to metropolitan tables.

For years these wild horses have been a bane to the cattle and sheep men of Nevada. Roaming the range in thousands, they destroy the feeding grounds, creating a serious grazing problem.

Nevada pays a bounty of one dollar a head just to have them shot and left laying for the buzzards. Now under the meat shortages of war, the wild horse is coming to the front as one of the answers to the nation's meat problem.

"And," say the champions of horse meat, "what's wrong with it? They feed on the cleanest of food, and are cleanly in their habits. Tests show the meat carries as many or more vitamins as any other variety. It tastes as good."

After all, wild horse meat should be as joyously received as Mary's lamb, Bobby's calf, or the family "Bossy". And, sales records indicate that women are increasingly defending the "family food front" by serving horse meat.

THE FOOD YOU BUY "IN THE DARK"

WHEN you go marketing, you can taste or test most produce you buy. But there's one important food element that, in a sense, must be bought "in the dark." You must buy vitamin products "on faith." There is no quick test for their potency.

We all know the role vitamins play in promoting good health. But not everyone realizes the folly of buying them by the "price-tag" method. In vitamins, it isn't the price you pay, but what you get that counts. We feature Abbott Vitamin Products because of their high vitamin potency and dependability. For safety's sake, bring vitamin prescriptions here.

"Jeweled Corridor" Has Dazzling Display of Many Hued Epiphyllums

Of all the beautiful flowering plants imported from the four corners of the earth, none can excel the epiphyllum in spectacular appeal. Although native to the tropical countries such as Brazil, Mexico and the Argentines, the majority of these gorgeous types have in the past been hybridized in Europe. And now in our own Southern Californria numerous superior kinds are being developed.

One could imagine nothing more congenial to Southern California climate and modern day architecture than these streamlined plants bearing a profusion of strikingly beautiful flowers from 6 to 10 inches in diameter, in all the colors of the rainbow. Some types are effective in wall or hanging baskets, but the majority display their charms to best advantage when trained against a trellis or wall.

One of the loveliest varieties in flower now is a Pasadena origination, called Young Nun. It has a large creamy flower with the margins of its petals shading to deeper yellow and brown. Another one to look for is Hernsissimus, which bears in flame and purple one of the largest and most striking flowers. Scheherazade opens in amethyst, turns rose to violet. Amber Queen is a popular one with fluted petals of amber and wine. Padre is another with delicate colors. Gloria is clear amber color with large size flowers in great numbers.

The "Jewelled Corridor" at the Coolidge Rare Plant Gardens during May and June presents a spectacle of dazzling beauty that you cannot soon forget; with over 230 varieties on display.

Save Meat Coupons
Serve Tasty FOWL

A savory golden-brown bird is smart table-talk for a party anytime—but these days it means "meat" without meat-coupons. Yes, and a protein food that's almost on a par with beef, so fowl scores again nutritionally. But to be sure you make the most of its food values, cook slowly on your gas range at low temperature. This week, we submit two of our favorite chicken recipes:

☆

Fricasseed Chicken
4 to 5 pounds chicken 2½ cups milk
Flour Salt Pepper Paprika
3 tablespoons butter

Method: Dredge pieces of chicken in well-seasoned flour. Brown in oiled skillet. Dot with butter. Pour milk over chicken. Cover pan and turn flame to simmer position and cook until tender. Serves 6.

☆

Chicken Paprika
2½-3½ pounds frying chicken, cut up
½ cup minced onion 1 tbsp. flour
1 tsp. paprika ¼ cup fat or salad oil
1½ tbsps. cold water 1 tsp. salt
2 tbsps. hot water ¼ tsp. lemon juice
1 cup sour cream

Method: Wash chicken, saute the onion in the hot fat in skillet until tender. Remove onion and brown chicken in the fat. Sprinkle cooked onion, paprika, salt and hot water over chicken in skillet. Cover and simmer over low flame for 30 minutes, or until chicken is tender. Remove chicken to a hot platter and keep hot. To the liquid remaining in the skillet, add the sour cream and heat. Then stir in the flour which has been blended with the cold water. When thickened, stir in the lemon juice and pour over chicken. Serves 4.

Good temper is like a sunny day; it sheds its brightness everywhere. —Sidney.

The.... Watch Tower

By Pertey Poore Sheehan

A TIME of transition in our garden — flowers of the peach-trees turning into fruit, eggs in the nests going through a somewhat similar change. All to the Spring oratorios of the mocking-birds. Here and there, now and then, a rare oriole. But the orioles won't nest until the weather becomes more settled. Not so their homely cousins, the blackbirds. The way the blackbird men folks have been visiting the food-supply outside our window—their haste to come and go—is sign enough. There'll be many a crowded hungry nest over there in the cypress-trees of East Montecito. The sparrows also have taken an early start—the real sparrows, the Song Sparrows. But the White-crowned Sparrows and the Golden-crowned, who've been with us all winter—gone, all gone now, like the first Spring flowers.

GONE to the Far North—to the mountains of Canada and Alaska, where they'll nest in the high pure solitudes hardly known to man. Maybe that's why these beautiful bright birds are so friendly and fearless when they come back to our gardens in the Fall. Old birds and their young; the young who've grown up—most of them—in a world as innocent of man and his works as this one was before Adam. And yet, other birds—those with a more tried experience in human conduct—are no less friendly; the wrens and linnets, the sparrows that do not migrate, and the towhees, tame as hand-raised chickens; the thrashers, the titmice, the bushtits. It's as if these also had brought over some memory of a manless world—from a pre-Adamite, pre-Cain-and-Abel world.

OR OF A world when men—who knows?—were still aerial, so to speak; ghostly and godlike, not yet burdened with their dense bodies of the flesh. The birds remember. Sometimes, out in our garden, we sometimes think that birds have this ancestral idea of men still so firmly fixed in their souls, that still they're regarding us like that. Regarding us, that is, as we ourselves might regard, say, ghosts, or angels, or gods; regarding us for what we were "in the beginning"—and are now most likely, more often than we think, and ever shall be. Times in our garden when we are very still—and we ourself forgetful that we have a body—and a song-sparrow, twitching with song, will come so close, so unafraid, as to recall, even to us, an age when man, his Spirit, was naked and unashamed.

RECALLING now, as we put this down, a regret that seems equally alive and old and deep. A recollection called up by so many of the Easter and Lenten sermons we've been listening to over the radio—so many of the old hymns we've been hearing, not so much the music as the words: "There is a fountain filled with blood. . . ." "And did my Sovereign die . . . for such a worm as I"? Or even those words of St. Paul, with all their variations: "And having made peace by the blood of His Cross. . . ." This was our regret—as strong in our awed and silent childhood as it is today and a regret moreover, we believe, brought over from some previous existence: Why all this insistence on blood, blood, blood! When the world is so beautiful! Which it ought to be—shouldn't it?—since God Himself made it. And made everything — flowers and birds and dogs; the blue sky—made Jesus, made US—in His Image!

BLOOD enough in the world right now—and always was—and ever shall be. The torrent of it moves along in this eternal Now of Creation. But it seems to us—as it faintly, fearfully seemed to us in our very infancy—that a restatement of TRUTH might be—must be—in order. For, after all, TRUTH is immortal; but words are not. At last—it may be at long last—the Spirit of Truth goes out of words even as the Spirit leaves these bodies of ours. Dust to dust, ashes to ashes! We can imagine some young chaplain thinking likewise today over there in Tunis as he makes his way through the raw new burial grounds. We see him pausing at each cross. We hear him say: "And here was shed the blood of the Lamb!" "And here is the Holy Sepulcher!" "And here Christ arose from the tomb!"

MEANING that the birds are right. Meaning that the birds, perhaps, have kept the vision we all had when we were still but the aerial creatures the birds remember and which we're all destined to be—soon enough, all of us—again, and again, and again! It's all right, Mary—all right, Martha! Don't you weep! He's not there—in that raw new grave in a foreign land. That's him out there, most likely, now, in the garden listening to the mocking-birds, listening to the song-sparrows. How joyfully they sing! They know.

What They Say ---

Kenneth H. Leitch, State Selective Service Director — "The new draft order doesn't help a bit. It just takes men out of one class and puts them in another."

Lt. Ernie Weyle, Naval Ace, Burlingame—"Nope, I didn't stay for my audience with King George. I was so anxious to get back here I just accepted my Distinguished Flying Cross and hit for home."

Mrs. Elizabeth Hall, Mental Hygiene Soc., Fresno—"We call them 'day shift children'—locked in cars or trailers for hours at a time while their mothers work, or roaming streets, their only reminder of what home might be, the door key which hangs like a good luck piece around their necks."

Robert Casey, author of "Battle Below", back from So. Pacific—"I was at Midway. I wouldn't bat an eyelash if somebody told me the Japs lost 25,000 men in that battle—and I'll eat a Sunday edition, funnies and all, if the Japs can ever get a force like that together again."

Thirteen billion dollars must raise in the Second War Loan drive, is only one sixth of the estimated cost of the war for the fiscal year of 1943.

The popular Mrs. Howard C. Lieben of 632 W. Montecito ave., was out seeing friends Tuseday for the first time since her return home after a major emergency surgery at the Good Samaritan Hospital in Los Angeles several weeks ago.

Tire Regulations Are Tightened

A bulletin just issued by the office of War Information announces that tire rationing regulations have been tightened to prevent bootlegging and violations of tire inspection requirements. Changes ordered by OPA are: (1) Tire inspection record must be kept in the vehicle while it is in operation, (2) Tire inspectors will report serial irregularities to the local rationing board, (3) If an applicant does not have a tire inspection record showing all inspection requirements completed, the local board may grant his application if an inspection was made 60 days before the application was filed (4) Dealers need not hold tires turned in for 30 days as now required if, before that time elapses, the tires are examined by an OPA representative and their disposal authorized.

NEEDED LARGER HOME FOR GROWING FAMILY

Finding their home here at 56 E. Sierra Madre blvd. becoming too small for a growing family and being unable to locate a larger one in the community just now, the I. H. Roberts family is moving to-morrow into more commodious quarters at 2642 La Rosa ave., Temple City, where the owner, going away to take over a new defense job, is leaving them a large and fully developed Victory Garden. Mr. ("Slim") Roberts was agent here for the Los Angeles Times from 1939 until March of this year and is now employed in the production control department of a Los Angeles plant turning out war material.

"BOY MEETS GIRL" NEXT AT THE PLAYHOUSE

American slanguage got a bullseye description of heartbeats when the Spewacks labeled their hit comedy, "Boy Meets Girl" and the laugh-packed product of this noted writing team, Sam and Bella, plays the Pasadena Community Playhouse stage from May 5 to 16.

"Family Portrait", special Easter playbill at Pasadena, closes its current showing on Sunday, May 2.

FIRE FLAMES

With one of the fire ladders placed high up into a sycamore tree last drill night, Bobby Clarke proved that as a fireman, he is "catching on". Carrying a loaded hose up a ladder was the drill stunt and the Auxiliary members were most capable. To handle a high pressure hose with accuracy of the stream of water is not as simple as it sounds, if one is hanging onto a ladder high above the ground.

Under the tutorship of Vern Udell, newer firemen were instructed in the art of operating the pumps on the big truck. Harry Lange is worthy of the glory bestowed upon him as he successfully pumped a high pressure thru' the lines.

The weeds are drying fast, bringing a big hazard. Now is the time to look the situation over and clear away from sheds and buildings all that even borders on a fire hazard. Even tho' we may have some more rain, most growth has reached maturity and will soon dry. Cut down that fire hazard!

STATE PICNICS

Arkansas, Tennessee and Kentucky joint picnic reunion will be held in Sycamore Grove, May 1st.

That thorough, astounding report, "Un-American Activities In California", just published in book form by the legislative investigating committee, may cost some careless politicos awful headaches during campaign season. It's packed with dynamite!

Black-outs and dim-outs have been charged with boosting accident ratios, purse snatchings, petty thievery, et cetera, et cetera. But now comes a congressional committee, meeting in S. F., with the disclosure that necking goes up as candle power goes down. The things these congressmen learn!

CLIPPED QUIPS

You can tell when normal times arrive. The comic strips will appear in enlarged size.—Greensboro (Ga.) Herald-Journal.

At that it must be wonderful in these times, being a farmer and raising everything required to keep a family, provided the children don't demand bananas.

—Chicago Daily News

THE 2ND WAR LOAN DRIVE IS ON!

★ ★

The Command has Come—

"Attack!"

THE big push is on! This is the fateful summer that we have been waiting for. Hitler knows he must win before another winter rolls around, or face inevitable annihilation. And you can be sure that he will hurl everything he has—every gun, plane, soldier and tank—into the summer struggle that is even now rising in tempo on every front.

And when the command goes out to our fighting men to ATTACK—you can be sure they don't look for excuses. They don't hesitate. They strike fast and hard—as they did at Guadalcanal, in Tunisia and in the skies over Europe.

NOW the command has come on the home front to attack! To attack with the dollars that buy the weapons of war our boys must have to meet the last desperate assaults of Hitler. Your government asks you to lend it 13 billion dollars during this drive. And this historic 2nd War Loan Drive, which started April 12th, is the most urgent appeal America has ever made!

The time is short—act now!

When you attack with War Bonds you don't suffer pain or anguish—you don't risk your limbs or your life as millions of our boys are doing every day. All you do is make an investment—the safest in the world. You help to secure Victory now—and your own financial security.

During this drive if you are visited by a volunteer War Bond worker, welcome him. He will explain the 7 different types of U. S. Government obligations you may choose from. But don't wait for his call—go at once to your nearest bank or Post Office or place where they sell War Bonds. And answer the command to ATTACK by buying more War Bonds—and still more War Bonds!

THEY GIVE THEIR LIVES... YOU LEND YOUR MONEY!

Unlike the Indian Question, which has no tolerance for middle-of-the-road attitudes, the American Social Security Question is one that demands recognition of soundness not only in the position of those who need social security protection, but of those who administer it and finally, of those who pay for it.

The problem is to avoid extremes in any direction.

Federal Socail Security Administrator Arthur J. Altmeyer recently discussed in California a plan which will "eliminate want, and cover all the major economic hazards to which workers are subjected."

"Even though we achieve full employment and full production," Mr. Altmeyer said, "the working people will still be confronted with the great economic hazards of sickness, physical disability, intermittent unemployment, old age and death."

As, of course, so will everybody in the universe, whether he operates his own business or works in somebody else's.

Organized, well administered social security is, of course, the only humanitarian answer to such economic ills. Proof of the need even in these days when the ad columns are crowded with pleas for workers, is the fact that 7 million people are unable to work because of sickness or physical disability, and that 3½ millions of these are permanently disabled.

The quarrel is not with the principle of social security. The quarrel is with the increasing, overlapping, confusing and almost unbearably costly demands of the various and motley governmental agencies, each with its own ideas on soul-saving reform and each by its own light blinded to the activities of similar agencies.

Touching on but one phase of the nerve straining turmoil seldom officially admitted, Mr. Altmeyer pointed out "51 jurisdictions, each collecting contributions and requiring reports, necessitating that an employer operating therein submit 209 seperate reports a year." Mr. Altmeyer proposes a plan for a "unified federal system", which would require far fewer reports. Fewer reports would please everybody—but handing over another rein to drivers 3,000 miles away would not please anybody who believes in the old American principle of home rule.

It might be well if federal officialdom and the public agencies intent on their own world shaking plans, would pause and scrutinize the equally ambitious programs of their neighbor agencies. The result might be a lesser tendency to rush through with ill-grounded urgency orders and too hard on a people already pressed with real necessity and real responsibility.

Down in the South Pacific islands, where the jungle vines grow thickest, our boys are fighting for their country in the clammy shade of palm leaf fronds. Sometimes, the airmen must make forced landings, and in order to break their way out of the jungle, they have to use knives to cut away the heavy underbrush. One vendor of knives reports that jungle knives used to sell at the rate of six or seven a year. Now hundreds a week go out of the West Coast ports of embarkation—and many more are needed by the boys for efficient jungle warfare. If you have one, give it to a soldier. It could make the difference between life and death to him. Old costume jewelry is acceptable, too, for trading with the natives.

Women's underground activities in France have taken form in a paper called the Voice of France whose editor herself merely "Madame bocalls fomme". The printing plant moves about from baseemnt to garret in the Paris suburbs to avoid detection by the Nazis. To date, the courageous editor, who stirs up her sisters to resist the Nazi regime, has not been taken by the Gestapo. As the male population of France has been deported to Germany for slave labor, French women, always strong-minded, have begun to take an active part in the secret war against the invaders. They are encouraged to refuse to work in factories, to slow down production, to protest audibly against the Nazi plunder of French food stocks. German Gestapo are well aware that many French women are their deadly enemies. "The female of the species" holds good. Their participation in organized opposition is tragically evidenced by the numbers recently sent to concentration camps or executed. The "voices" which inspire these women, may not be those that led Jeanne d'Arc, but they are the voices which have inspired opposition to oppression throughout the ages.

Due to the war—A group of New York restaurants are giving customers, on request, special "totem boxes" to carry home leftovers. . . . Carnegie-Illinois Steel has a family team of workers: the wife pushes a wheelbarrow while the husband, physically handicapped, is a recorder. . . Boeing Aircraft's plant is so big the workers didn't want to walk to the cafeteria, so now hot meals come along the assembly lines via a train of hand trucks. . . . 65,187 women are working in 74 types of jobs on railroads, a rise of nearly 60 per cent since last Fall.
